

Why selling our wines abroad?

Facing difficulties to sell the wines in France, while foreign countries markets obviously raise year after year, there is no doubt that Château la Commanderie De Queyret has to include international trade as a main outlet.

In that way, we are hunting for new customers all over the world interested in French gastronomy, French habits and experience of our country.

If you are willing to distribute our wines, you can contact us, by sending us an email introducing your project. Each project will be considered with care.